

Toby walked over to the garden "these are daffodils" he said as he touched them gently. "I like them, bright yellow, like the sun" Toby commented. He bent down and smelled it. "Like grandmas house" Toby commented. He slowly walked along the bed of daffodils and touched them with his fingertips "They are so soft" he said with a smile.