

Red-bellied Black Snake

Also known as: common black snake

Found: distributed down the east coast (though not to Tasmania) and slightly into south-eastern South Australia

The red-bellied black snake is somewhat less venomous than many other Australian snakes, but you're more likely to come across it in urban areas and its bite is certainly no picnic, causing significant illness and requiring medical attention.