

Benefits Of Computer Area

Many children today have access to and are familiar with computers. In today's society, it's important for us to be computer-literate and enable all children to become comfortable with computers

- Children develop perseverance (seeing a program / task through to completion).
- Enables children to develop pride (print completed work).
  - Encourage children to work co-operatively with others (working in pairs on the computer).
- Helps children develop early reading skills (matching words to graphics).
  - Identify and sort objects (using programs that develop classification skills).
    - Improves children's visual skills (following moving objects on the screen).
  - Extends children's creativity (using programs that encourage free exploration).
- Allows children to understand cause and affect relationships (seeing what happens when certain keys are pressed).
